Of the 24 depots, 9 satellite depots and 7 convenience outlets situated nationwide, six have full engineering workshops run internally, they operate 24 hours a day seven days a week and are responsible for keeping the entire fleet of vehicles operational and running on time.

Each year Engineering enrols apprentices and trains them for a period of four years into qualified vehicle technicians.

Unifreight employs over 800 staff, of which 126 are heavy-duty vehicle operators, whose average length of service at Unifreight is seventeen (17) years.

Unifreight has a dedicated driving school which is responsible for training drivers on all company vehicles.

Unifreight prides itself on investing in its employees and offers staff both external and internal training across all departments.
Our History

Unifreight’s roots lie in investments made by United Transport in Zimbabwe from the late 1940s onwards. United Transport was a British company which subsequently became a wholly owned subsidiary of British Electric Traction and was itself taken over by Rentokil plc in 1996. Control passed to a locally based consortium in 2005 and in 2014, through a reverse listing with Pioneer Corporation Africa, the company became known as Unifreight Africa Limited.

Over the many years, it has successfully acquired various transport operations across Southern Africa growing the fleet, depot network and service offering exponentially and increasing its transport and logistics versatility.
Transport is a dynamic force in the world of road freight and distribution solutions across Zimbabwe. With a well-established range of varied through its main services – Swift Courier, Swift Courier Express, Swift Freight, Swift Full loads and Swift Mutakuri.

Unifreight Africa Ltd Corporate Profile
Where we’re heading

Zimbabwe is strategically situated within Southern Africa and has good trading relationships with its neighbours. Freight movement within Zimbabwe is done mostly via road network as the rail infrastructure is often unreliable. Unifreight Africa Limited is exploring regional opportunities as well as consolidating its Zimbabwean operations and expanding its local transport service offering to include Door to Door Home Deliveries.

Unifreight Africa Limited has confidence in its future endeavours and will always be willing and able to provide first class transport and logistics solutions for all industries and fulfil every one of its customers’ needs.
